A RISE & RALLY PODCAST

ABOUT THE PODCAST

"All Voices: Collaborative & Constructive Conversations To Create Change In Healthcare" is the official podcast of Rise & Rally, where we bring together a diverse range of voices to explore and address the challenges within the healthcare system.

Our goal is to foster meaningful conversations with patients, caregivers, providers, researchers, medical professionals, and policymakers to identify problems, brainstorm solutions, and drive change for those with chronic, complex, and rare conditions.

Here on the pod & at Rise & Rally, we recognize that the healthcare system is broken – broken for providers, broken for patients & if you're tuning in, likely broken for you or someone you love. We don't just want to change it; we NEED to. Together.

That's why we started our podcast, "All Voices" to be the place where we, as a collective group of people struggling with the current system can sit down & let all voices involved be heard so that we can truly collaborate, communicate & constructively create change in the healthcare system.

LISTEN NOW

Our Mission:

To create a platform for collaborative and constructive conversations that empower individuals and drive systemic change in the healthcare system.

Our Vision:

To build a community where all voices are heard, leading to actionable solutions and improvements in chronic, complex and rare disease advocacy and healthcare reform.

WHAT TO EXPECT

Through engaging discussions with a variety of guests, we explore what's broken, share personal stories, and develop strategies for change.

In each episode, we tackle the complexities of the healthcare system by:

- Highlighting personal experiences from patients, caregivers, and healthcare professionals
- Discussing systemic issues and barriers in the healthcare system
- Exploring solutions with medical experts, policymakers, and advocates
- Providing actionable advice for navigating and improving the current system
- Fostering constructive conversations about healthcare reform
- Exploring the intersection of healthcare and other social issues
- Showcasing innovations and best practices from the healthcare community

MEET THE HOST

Haley James is the founder, president, and CEO of Rise & Rally, and your host for the All Voices podcast! Haley's journey through the healthcare system began over a decade ago when she was suddenly struck by a series of unexplained health issues. Battling through countless chronic, complex, and rare diagnoses, and a system that often felt more hindering than helpful, Haley's personal struggle revealed the immense need for change in how these conditions are addressed.

She tried to get involved in other advocacy groups, but felt that they weren't easily accessible to get involved in and were not getting to the heart of the issues that patients, caregivers and providers were collectively experiencing in the chronic, complex and rare communities. She not only wanted to change it, she knew she needed to. This desire lead her to create Rise & Rally and then go on to create and host the All Voices Podcast where she hopes to be able to have collaborative and constructive conversations to create change in healthcare.
